

Please do not make any changes to the current process regulating the purchase of broadband media. The media is such an important part of American Democracy. It enables divergent views to be presented to the public. Deregulation, I fear, would enable a very high percentage of media vehicles to be in the hands of a very few people. Regardless of who they are, this would be a mistake.

Sincerely, Jeff Clapp